

From Strength to Strength

On the 5th June Express Medicals opened its new administration centre in London. We were delighted to welcome Simon Hughes, MP for North Southwark and Bermondsey, to officially open the new centre. This was Simon Hughes second visit to Express Medicals after he opened Express Medicals Medical Centre in January 2007. Simon spoke of the important role small businesses, like Express Medicals, play in the UK's economy. With the recent economic climate Simon was most impressed by Express Medicals determination and success in growing as a company.

The new administration centre will enable Express Medicals to improve on its Medical Centre's facilities further. As well as improving the London Medical Centre's facilities Express Medicals has plans to continue increasing the number of clinics across the UK throughout 2009.

The open day was an opportunity for Express Medicals' London based customers to visit the premises and meet the staff. Express Medicals looks forward to meeting with customers through out 2009 and welcomes any customers who could not attend the opening to visit the premises in the near future.
